BEFORE HON. H. E. WODEHOUSE.
ALLEGED CHILD STEALING.
Chi Akwan, married woman, was charged with illegally detaining the child of Mak Aohun.
Complainant said she was a married woman living in Second-street. In the month of October last she presented her daughter, three years old, to a woman named Niek Aying. The child fell sick and she returned it to witness. On the 16th January, when it had recovered, Niek Aying again took possession of the child. On the 16th February witness saw the child with defendant. She wanted it back. Defendant refused to give it up and called out, "Save life." "Then, but,"

He up and called out: "Save him. They don't want to the Police Station. She did not charge the defendant with anything. She merely wanted the child back."

Defendant said the child was given her by Mak Ayip.

His Worship dismissed the case.

THEFT OF CLOTHING.

Un Shing, convicted of stealing two jackets, of the value of $20, which he had been entrusted to repair, was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment with hard labour.

GAMBLING CASE.

Three men were convicted at the instance of Inspector Quinoy with keeping a public gambling house at No. 16, Square Street, and were sen-from Australia and living at No. 77, Prayag, about 11. a.m., he was walking in Queen's Road Central, near No. 5 Police Station. A man, whom he did not know, came up and spoke to him. He asked him to take him to the Tut Lunneng Hing shop and said that he had just come from America. Witnesses presented to direct him there. They walked along till they came to a house in Kwong Hing Lane, where defendant pointing to a house said "this is my family house, come in and have a cup of tea." Witness went in and drank two cups of tea and had a smoke. After that he began to feel giddy. He heard the man who had brought him there give the order to look the door.

Let me give the order to look and most gladly let no one in. He had twenty sovereigns in his pocket pocket. The two prisoners came towards him and soon afterwards told him to leave the house. He then noticed that the sovereigns were gone. On the 13th inst. he laid information at the Police Station and the same day was sent for to identify the prisoners. He charged the with sending him.

The case was remanded till the 14th inst.

THE CHINKIANG RIOT.

The N. C. Daily News is indebted to a Chinkiang resident for the following account of the riot and its most probable origin. Some three or four months ago instructions were issued by the Chiungking Municipal Council to the police to clear certain roads in the Concession, which had been taken possession of by crowds of pedlars, rowdies, and others. A Sikh constable was ordered to tell the crowd to "move on," which demand they resisted and a disturbance followed. The interpreter in the American Consulate was on the scene, and caught hold of the Sikh and attempted to drag him away by force, saying he would bring him before the Council. The Sikh then said, "I will not go."

Council. The sixth, however, appeared to go further than the Police Station, and there the Interpreter alleged that the Constable had insulted and assaulted him. The charge was afterwards investigated by the Council, and although nothing was proved against the constable, who was only carrying out his orders, he was reprimanded, more to appease the Chinese than anything else. This did, however, not appease the Interpreter, and from that time there was a very strong feeling against the Sikhs, the dismissal of all of whom was demanded by the Chinese, which demand the Council refused of

On last Tuesday (5th February) it appears a Sikh interfered with a crowd of noisy people and told one man in particular to go away. This man afterwards went to the Station and complained that he had been kicked by the Sikh. The Police Surgeon sent a Chinaman doctor forward, examined the

and a Chinese doctor afterwards examined the man, but could find no traces of his having received any violence, and he was sent about his business. A short distance from the station he fell down, it is supposed "shamming dead", and a crowd of excited Chinese of the lower class and including large numbers of children and women surrounded the man shouting that he was dead, and that the Sikh had killed him. A rush was made upon the Station, which in less time than it takes to write it, was completely invested by the howling and excited mob. The occupants of the Station, consisting of Mr. Nicson, six sixth and eight Chinese constables, flew for their lives through the back door, and the mob commenced to demolish the building, which was speedily accomplished, hardly one stone being left standing on another, the crowd pulling the place completely down. The next move was to the residence of some of the Municipal

...to the residence of some of the municipal council, the crowd shouting that they wanted Mr. Gregson and Mr. David. The occupants of these houses escaped out by the back doors, and the crowd smashed windows but did not enter the houses, apparently being told that there were no Europeans inside. In the senttime Mr. Mansfield, the British Consul, had sent to the native authorities to send him assistance, and after some delay four unarmed soldiers arrived on the scene, but they were too few, and so unwilling to interfere with the proceedings of the crowd, who, after setting fire to

Mr. Duff's houses directed their attention to the British Consulate. Mr. Mansfield, Mrs. Mansfield, their two children and all the other occupants of the building had barely time to fly when the building was in flames, the rioters piling inflammable stuff on all sides. Not a book or paper saved, and the following morning the building had been saved, we believe, and the entire building consumed. Mrs. Mansfield had not even time to get her shoes on, and in this plight had to fly to a place of safety. The next building, the American Consulate, was then attacked, but changing their tactics, the rioters did not set fire to it because it was surrounded by Chinese.

uses, but contented themselves with stripping of everything movable and locking it complete. The native military authorities had by this time bestirred themselves so far as to send down six more unarmed men, who either from fear or inability or sympathy, which men more likely, did not interfere with the work of destruction, but stood by while the miscreants were busy. In fact it is stated with good authority that some of the braves actually turned their uniforms inside out and used them in the work of demolishing the property of the "foreign devil." General Jones and lanner as the residents in the adjoining commune, and almost the whole foreign population, which is about seventy-five at the outside, were in full flight over the hill, the ladies of the community with their children rushing from their uses in the clothes they stood in and leaving all their property at the mercy of the mob. The crowd then commenced to fire the concession in various places, a row of three new houses recently built by Mr. Duff, one of which was occupied by Mr. Lancelotti of the Customs, whose house was the first to be hit.

At this time arrived, and some petty mandarins appeared on the scene, but they either could or would do nothing to quell the riot, which had assumed enormous proportions, the streets of the city being densely packed with the mob.
